According to the patient's medical file:

The above-mentioned patient is suffering from a severe comminuted fracture of the distal tibia and fibula in the left leg, resulting from a significant injury.

A surgical operation was performed 4 weeks ago, involving fixation with a plate, screws, and an intramedullary rod (steel pin).

As of the date of this report, there is no evidence of bone healing, and the patient continues to experience severe persistent pain, with an inability to walk or bear weight on the affected leg.

The patient urgently requires a new surgical operation to remove the intramedullary rod, as well as a comprehensive medical rehabilitation program and close follow-up by orthopedic specialists.

The condition is relatively serious and necessitates continuous medical attention.
